Rationale (Justificación) WHY 300 –words text (Un texto corto de 300 palabras) Aprender inglés desde pequeños es una oportunidad para que los niños y niñas tengan otras formas de comunicarse y mirar el mundo. En el grado prejardín, ellos aprenden más jugando, preguntando y explorando, por eso se pensó en usar el cuento The Little Hummingbird. Es una historia corta y sencilla que ayuda a llamar su atención y, al mismo tiempo, les acerca a nuevas palabras en otro idioma. El colibrí se escogió porque es un animal que ellos pueden reconocer, además de que tiene colores llamativos, es pequeño y vuela rápido. Eso hace que los niños se interesen más fácil, que lo recuerden y que puedan relacionar lo que ven en la historia con cosas de su entorno, como las flores o los colores.

La idea no es solamente que repitan vocabulario, sino que vivan el idioma como una experiencia. Cuando cantan, juegan a volar como el colibrí o nombran los colores, están usando palabras nuevas pero también el cuerpo, la voz y la imaginación.

Por eso, el cuento The Little Hummingbird se justifica como un recurso valioso: no se trata solo de enseñar inglés, sino de hacerlo de una manera alegre, cercana y significativa para los niños.

Methodology (Metodología)/ See Suggested English Curriculum pages 16-19)

How: 300- words text

The methodology of this unit is designed to respond to the characteristics of Pre-Kindergarten children, who learn mainly through play, movement, and imagination. The goal is for English to become a familiar and meaningful experience, where students feel motivated to participate, explore, and enjoy themselves while discovering new words and expressions.

The common thread of the unit will be the story “The Little Hummingbird,” a simple story about a hummingbird and garden animals.

A central strategy will be Total Physical Response (TPR), in which children learn through action. Simple commands in English will be used, which students will represent with body movements. Thus, when hearing expressions such as “fly like a hummingbird,” children will imitate the fluttering of a hummingbird, connecting vocabulary with bodily experience. This technique facilitates word retention and takes advantage of the natural need for movement at this age.

Digital resources such as short holograms about hummingbirds and Jcllc with simple interactive games will also be integrated. These materials will support attention and allow for dynamic reinforcement of what has been learned. At the same time, creative and artistic activities will be carried out.

Finally, collaborative work will play an important role. Through games and activities in small groups, children will learn to share, communicate, and help each other. This will allow them not only to practice English, but also to strengthen their social skills in an environment of trust and cooperation.

	fly so fast fast fast zoom around the flowers, fly so slow slow slow, float and fell the power say hello, wave your hand, wig you fingers bright, fast and slow, flap again sparkle in the light. 3. After singing, the pre-service teachers show the book The Little Hummingbird and read aloud the first two pages, inviting the children to look at the illustrations and predict what the story might be about. 4. At the end of the reading, a short guided conversation is held with simple questions such as: What did you see in the illustrations? What would you like the hummingbird’s name to be?
MIDDLE Main topic (tópico principal)	1. Each child receives a picture of a hummingbird to color. 2. They carefully paint the details of its wings, using the colors they like best. 3. Once finished, the wings are covered with cellophane paper and decorated with sequins so they shine, just as described in the book.	30 min	picture of the hummingbird	hummingbird

	“If I don’t say Simon says, you stay still.” 3. Use commands related to the lesson and garden animal theme, for example: “Simon says: flap your wings like a hummingbird!” “Simon says: fly slow!” “Simon says: fly fast!” “Touch your head” (without saying Simon says — to check comprehension). 4. Gradually increase the speed and variety of commands to keep attention and excitement high. 5. End by reviewing the vocabulary used and congratulating the children with phrases like “Good job!” and “You are great little hummingbirds!”
Review (Recapitulation)	. * Repeat the words learned with the children by showing them the hummingbird and saying, “This is a hummingbird, it has wings.” * Sing the Hummingbird Greeting Song again at the end to close with positive energy.
